About the company

ILS was founded in 2010 to support aid agencies that work in challenging and hostile environments. Today we offer a range of different security training and risk advisory services designed to keep aid workers, journalists and students safe when they travel overseas.

We pride ourselves on our outstanding reputation. We have developed this by taking the time to understand our clients and tailor our services to their needs, consistently striving to support in new and innovative ways.

We are a small, dynamic and close knit team of professionals servicing a broad range of organisations across the development, humanitarian, human rights, media and education sectors.

OUR MISSION: ILS is committed to the safety and security of professionals working overseas through the delivery of advice, support and training.

WHAT WE DO: We deliver robust, comprehensive and innovative solutions to security risk management challenges worldwide.

OUR VALUES: We are driven by the values of humanitarianism, respect, compassion and creativity.

About the position

The Director: Risk Advisory Services provides leadership, direction and development to the Risk Advisory Team and is a member of the ILS Management team responsible for making a major contribution to the strategic development of ILS in collaboration with other Directors.

The role has overall responsibility for ensuring the delivery of ILS' risk advisory work, and contributes to the design and delivery of bespoke training programmes. The Director has a lead role in development of new business and client management, as well as ensuring the quality of service delivery and outputs. The Director will also work directly with ILS clients to provide advice, support and training to their people and operations around the world.

Specific tasks include;

- Overall technical lead on security risk management consultancy
- Continued development of an online travel risk management platform
- Quality assurance of all consultancy products
- Client account management
- New business acquisition
- Day to day line management of our team of risk advisors
- Delivery of risk advisory projects and bespoke training programmes

Description of the ideal candidate;

You are an experienced strategic leader, with a successful record at a senior level. You have a flexible approach that enables you to work in a small, growing organisation.

You have worked in a risk management role at an international NGO, and intimately understand current security risk management principles and practices within the NGO sector.

You are a commercially astute professional manager, with a passion for your work and a desire to work as part of a small team in a growing, purpose driven company. You will have held an account management or commercial consultancy position in the past, potentially within a small business or start-up.

You are a passionate, results driven and creative character, able to design tailored risk management solutions that fit different organisational needs, missions, and risk thresholds. You will take pride in the quality and results of your team.

You are a values-based decision maker, experienced in principled negotiation.

You have hands on experience of crisis / critical incident management, a well-developed comprehension of duty of care legislation and a strong understanding of current information security and safeguarding issues.

You must have excellent written skills and be fluent in English. Strong IT skills are essential.

As a highly competent communicator, you must be a 'people-smart' empathetic manager, with a high level of self-awareness. You are able to understand and communicate the competing needs of your team, and your clients. You can effectively communicate complex information to a range of organisational levels and technical abilities.

You must have the right to work in the UK.
